

Sniffles, Sneezes, Hiccups, and Coughs

PENNY DURANT

Ah-choo!

Everyone sneezes—people,
dogs, cats, horses, turtles,
birds, and even giraffes!

Some sneezes are loud.

Others are quiet.

Your vocal cords are open for breathing.

When you cough, you take a deep breath and hold it, while your chest and stomach muscles tighten.

You hiccupped
even before you
were born.

No one knows
why we hiccup,
but people try
lots of different things to get rid of them.

Some people hold their breath.

Some breathe in and out of a paper bag.

*A paper bag
can help you control your breathing.*

Everyone sneezes, coughs,
and yawns. But why
do we all go ah-choo?
