THE THREE LITTLE WOLVES and THE
BIG BAD PIG

Once upon a time, there were three cuddly little wolves with soft fur and fluffy tails who lived with their mother. The first was black, the second was gray, and the third was white.

One day the mother called the three little wolves around her and said, "My children, it is time for you to go out into the world. Go and build a house for yourselves. But beware of the big bad pig."

"Don't worry, Mother, we will watch out for him," said the three little wolves, and they set off.

Soon they met a kangaroo who was pushing a wheelbarrow full of red and yellow bricks.

“Please, will you give us some of your bricks?” asked the three little wolves.

“Certainly,” said the kangaroo, and she gave them lots of red and yellow bricks.

So the three little wolves built themselves a house of bricks.

THE THREE LITTLE WOLVES AND THE BIG BAD PIG

Once upon a time, there were three cuddly little wolves with soft fur and fluffy tails . . .

When it comes time for the three little wolves to go out into the world and build themselves a house, their mother warns them to beware of the big bad pig. But the little wolves' increasingly sturdy dwellings are no match for the persistent porker, who has more up his sleeve than huffing and puffing. It takes a chance encounter with a flamingo pushing a wheelbarrow full of flowers to provide a surprising and satisfying solution to the little wolves' housing crisis.

EUGENE TRIVIZAS's hilarious text and HELEN OXENBURY's enchanting watercolors have made this delightfully skewed version of the traditional tale a contemporary classic, now more appealing than ever with a fresh new cover look.
