

IN THE GARDEN

by David M. Schwartz photographs by Dwight Kuhn

LOOK ONCE LOOK AGAIN

SCIENCE SERIES

Creative Teaching Press

LOOK ONCE

This is called an eye,
but it cannot see you!
What has eyes
but cannot see?

LOOK AGAIN

A potato! A potato's eyes are actually buds. With water and sunlight, these buds will sprout and grow into stems and leaves.

Some of the stems grow underground with the roots. They are called "tubers." Tubers grow big and round—until we eat them!

LOOK ONCE

Does this animal have a bad case of warts? These aren't warts. They are bumps on the rough skin of an animal that hops.

