Lewis and Clark

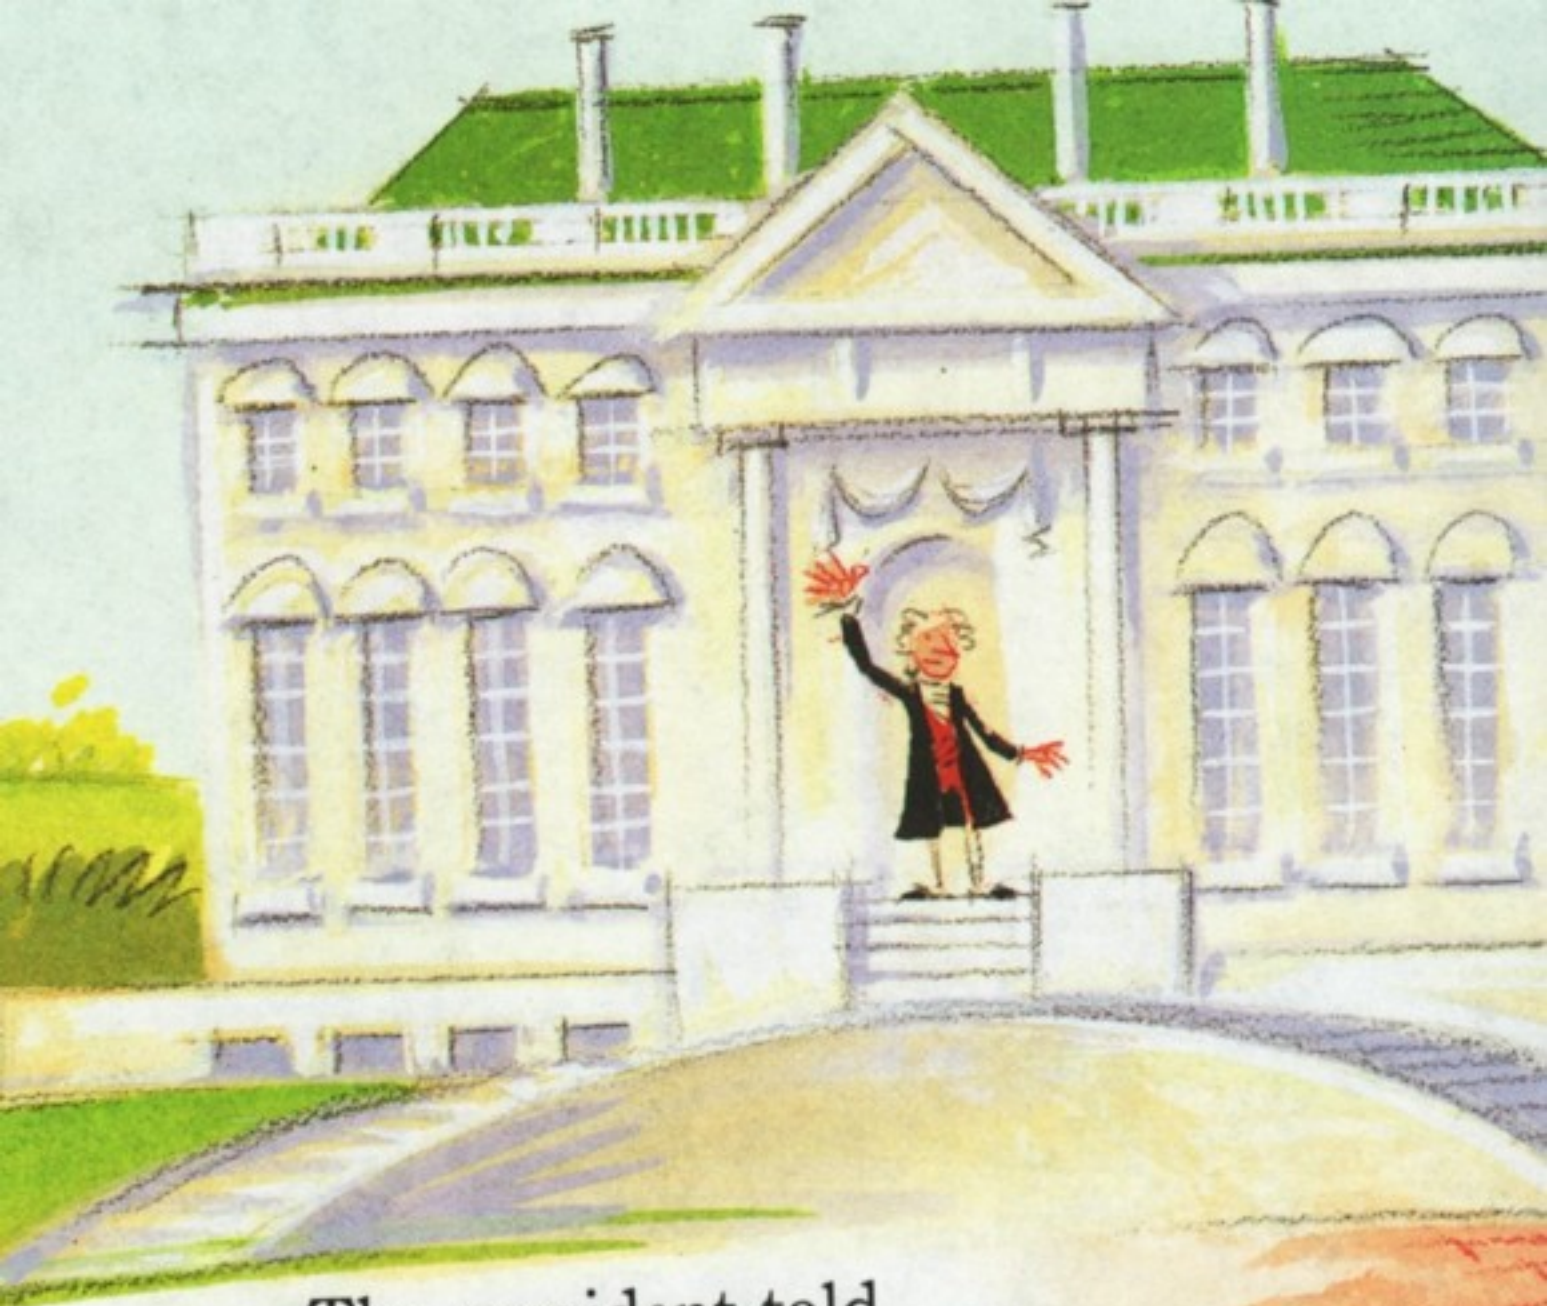

A Prairie Dog
for the President

by Shirley Raye Redmond · illustrated by John Manders

In 1803, Thomas Jefferson was the president of the United States.

The president told
Lewis and Clark
to make maps
and explore rivers.

He told them to collect plants
and draw wild animals.

Most important,
he told them to send presents!

They tried to catch
some of the animals
to send to the president.

But the buffalo were too big.

The grizzly bears
were too dangerous.
