

Fantastic Rocks

A photograph of a natural rock arch made of reddish-brown sandstone. The arch is set against a clear blue sky. A group of about ten people are standing on the rocky ledge just below the arch, providing a sense of scale. The rock surface is textured with various cracks and ledges.

by Alan Rubin

What do you see when you look at a rock?
You may see something very big.

You may see something very small.

Rocks can be many different shapes.